Dear culture enthusiasts,

As the name already implies, the Schösserstrasse (Castle Road) is a cross-border route through a region with one of the highest concentrations of castles and fortifications in Europe. Originally established as an association of castles in Styria and Burgenland, today it also includes Slovenian members.

The 39 member castles and abbeys, which formerly served defensive functions or as aristocratic residences, now have a new role. Today, these well-preserved buildings are tourist attractions, museums or event venues. Each year, these precious cultural treasures attract a wide audience.

The main objective behind the Castle Road is to preserve and protect these historic sites in order to provide a valuable cultural and educational offer for young and old. Through partnerships with regional businesses in the fields of health, gastronomy, culture and sports, the Castle Road offers visitors an unforgettable programme.

Each member castle develops and organises its own unique concept for the use of its historic site, which results in a wide range of different, complementary touristic and cultural offers. What they all have in common is that existing historic buildings provide the venue.

The programme offered along the Castle Road is an invitation to explore the incredible diversity of these residences and should also be understood as my personal recommendation to discover the many special features of this area.

We look forward to your visit!

Consul Mag. Andreas Bardeau
Spokesperson for the 39 member castles, palaces and abbeys
